Bio

Ms. Wang is an exceptional high functioning member of society and has worked long and hard to achieve the position she is in today and it has built up her character and personality, it has also strengthened her and gives her a deep sense of purpose and confidence in herself. She works in a high stress position and it pays well however she feels its taking a toll on her family life and contentment in life. She works long hours and is often drained when she gets home. She loves her family and friends however her career has taken over her life and she is looking for guidance on how to better herself and integrate a healthy work life balance.
